

SESSION 1: 8:45AM – 10:00AM

PCH 202	Kempe Center for Children of Abuse and Neglect, Dr. Don Bross	Professor Bross reviews the consequences of abuse and neglect on children, as well as, what is known about the behavior of those who maltreat children, what leads to abuse and neglect, examples of maltreatment to illuminate the diagnostic process, and how the medical and legal community responds to abuse and neglect. This presentation is offered in this format only at Regis CSI.
PCH 214	Cellular Phone Evidence for Investigators, David Pettinari	Everyone carries a cell phone nowadays, which means these devices will be used in criminal activity, and someone will be looking at them, or going to the phone carrier with a search warrant, court order, or subpoena, asking for evidence. Dave Pettinari, a retired sheriff's commander who once headed a high-tech crimes unit, and who now does private consulting for governments, defense, and in private cases, explains the ins and outs and intricacies of looking for evidence in cell phones and from phone providers.
PCH 205	The Primary and Secondary Impact of Violent Crime, Rebecca Gershten & Robert Boggess	Ms. Gershten and Mr. Boggess will discuss the personal, legal, and social ramifications of the aftermath of rape. Rebecca was one of the survivors of Brent Brents' serial rapist rampage in Denver during 2005. Robert will discuss the secondary impact of violent crime. These speakers will discuss their journey that led to activism and agents of change for public safety.

PCH 310	Considerations and Investigation of Sexually Motivated Homicides – A Case Study, Lt. Jon Priest	Lieutenant Priest’s presentation on a Denver homicide involving an offender living in a halfway house and a young girl who lived down the street, and who unfortunately came home early one day is an incredible portrayal of the dynamics of one of Denver’s most violent sexual assault homicides. Lieutenant Priest was the primary investigator on this intriguing crime and his presentation is one that attendees will absolutely not want to miss.
PCH 303	Unique Theoretical Constructs of Criminal Profiling, Dr. David Mirich	Dr. Mirich’s presentations are provocative and distinctive. He will present some stimulating and original theories underlying criminal motivation, including original views of the etiology and development of the psychopathic personality that are sure to elicit thoughtful analysis. Dr. Mirich has taught at numerous colleges and universities in the metro area.
PCH 180/ 182	Child/ Adolescence Forensic Interviews and the FBI, Karen Blackwell	An introduction to the types of violations worked by the FBI that involve children and adolescents, and the types of skills and knowledge necessary to conduct forensic interviews with this population will be provided. Discussion will center on how child and adolescent forensic interviewers elicit critical information from a child witness, and factors influencing children’s statements including trauma, linguistic and memory development, and issues impacting disclosure.
PCH 206	Financial Forensics for Asset Recovery, Joe Dickerson	This session will be presented by Joe H. Dickerson, CFE, CFI, and CEO of Financial Forensic Services, a domestic and international forensic research judgment enforcement and litigation management firm. Joe has over 48 years of experience as a Financial Investigator and Judgment Enforcement.
