“LOUISIANA’S
RISKY BUSINESS:
The First Three Years
Last Forever”

- Brain architecture: how the growing brain builds on experiences
- Playing games: the role of early childhood experiences in developing executive function and the connection to college success
- Local data on risk and reach in Louisiana: the realities of the state budget on resources for young children

Dr. Nagle is Director of the Tulane Institute of Infant & Early Childhood Mental Health and Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the Tulane University School of Medicine. He has worked closely with state government leaders to build a system of high quality early care and education. This advocacy has resulted in Quality Start, Louisiana’s child care quality rating system; the School Readiness Tax Credits; and new laws that create an Early Childhood System Integration Budget.

Dr. Nagle has made numerous presentations around the country on topics including building an early childhood system, designing a state early childhood budget, and the economic impact of child care.
